C00262 □	M2 Project Organisation	Risk of diluting the gem analogy's message	The “gem analogy” is a central metaphor within The Arini Method, portraying each child as a unique gem to be discovered, polished, and honoured. It represents the child’s intrinsic value, natural curiosity, and potential for brilliance when nurtured with care, not force. There is a concern that, over time or across different pilot locations, the power and clarity of this metaphor may be lost, misunderstood, or used superficially, turning a profound guiding principle into a decorative slogan.	Educators deeply internalize and apply the gem metaphor What Could Go Wrong? If treated superficially, this core idea loses impact	Gem analogy noted but not systematically embedded	Weave gem metaphor into training scripts, posters, and parent sessions
